

I am very upset that once again big business is trying to tell me what I can and cannot have. I am an over the road driver and one of the reasons I have XM radio is because I can get traffic updates instantly without having to wait for a sales pitch first. If regular radio feels threatend by this then they should improve the service they provide instead of attacking the competition.